

ABSTRACT

Systems and methods are provided for detecting abnormality in magnetic rotors, including determining whether fluctuation in rotational speed occurs at a specific position of a magnetic rotor.